ening. We congratulate the Democracy and conser vative men of Illinois on the glorious triumph they achieved in the adoption of the new Constitution by an overwhelming majority. The Republicans and Abolitionists denounced it as a "Democratic measure," passed by a body of secession sympathisers. Behold the verdict. The people have approved it by a majority of twenty or thirty thousand. The Constitution was opposed by the officials of the Federal Government, by those of the State Government, by stumptail bankers and politicians of all grades; but the honest, conservative masses of the people triumphed over all these obstacles. We hall the victory as an evidence that there is a change go-

Convention. This promised to be imposing demonstration came off yesterday, according to programme. There is no necessity of saying anything in its disparagement, so far as numbers and enthusiasm are concerned. It was not what we expected it to be in these respects, and it fell far below the expectations of its getters up. It will be a large estimate when we say that two thousand, outside of the city and county, were present. And the character and position of those who did attend. present the best evidence that the hearts of the people were not in the movement. The bone and sinew of the State were not there, and the absence of that class was a noticeable feature in the Convention. It was composed mainly of preachers, bankers, village politicians, officeholders and office seekers. There were a few men who acted in good faith, and really thought it was a "Union" movement, a temporary surrender of party affiliations for the good of the country; but that class were very few and far between. Outside of this class, and especially with the Republicans present, the feeling prevailed, and it was frequently expressed, that it was an immense letting down of Republicanism, without an adequate consideration. There were some in the Convention who had heretolore acted with the Democratic party, and who apparently had no selfish purposes to advance; but what these men can see in the character of the Convention, or in its resolutions to commend, it is difficult for us to divine. The main portion of the Convention, and we may say the mass of it who participated in its proceedings, were Republicans-the men who have made up the various parties which have sprung up in op position to the Democracy for the past eight years. The true sentiment of the Convention found no expression in its resolutions or action. It was evidently suppressed for an object-and that purpose was to perpetuate the party now in power in both the State and national Govern ments without assuming the responsibility of the acts of the Republican party and Administration. The Convention was a tailure and it will be so regarded by the true and honest men of all perties. Hypocrisy in the present crisis of the country will not win. There was no hone-t, outspoken, manly expression upon the issues now before the nation-not party questions, but questions of public policy of the highest importance and involving the welfare of the Government There was nothing said about emancipation or confiscation-nothing about the gross frauds and corruptions which have eluracterized the party in power-nothing about the unequal tariff sys tem-nothing against the paper system which indirectly reproduces a Government bank, and nothing in reference to any acts or avowals of the National and State Administrations. Upon these topics there was an ominous silence. Will honest, Union-loving Democrats, who placed some faith in the "Union" movement, be satisfied with such a platform? We think not. Officeseekers may, office holders may, Government contractors may, but not the masses of the people whose only purpose is the preservation of the and honestly administered. The callers of the "Union" Convention denounced the 8th of January Convention as disloyal. If such was the character of the latter, in what respect do the resolutions passed by the "Union" Convention differ from the 8th of January platform? Let us vention resolves as follows: That the present civil war was forced upon the country by the disunionists of the Southern States, who are now in rebellion against the Constitutional Government; that in the present National emergency, we, the people of Indiana, in Convention assembled, forgetting all former political differences, and recollecting only our duty to the whole country, do pledge ourselves to aid with men and money the vigorous prosecution of the present war, which is not being waged upon the part of our Government for the purpose of conquest, subjugation or the overthrowing or in terrering with the rights or established institutions of any of the States, but to suppress and put down a wicked and causeless rebellion, defend and maintain the supremacy of the Constitution. and to preserve the Union as established by our patriot fathers, with all the dignity, equality and rights of the several States unimpaired, and when those objects are fully accomplished, and not before, we believe the war ought to cease.

The rumor to which we referred in our last that the Secretary of the Treasu v was about the Committee on Ways and Means, making the request and giving his reasons for it having been lative demand for stocks, gold and sterling exchange set in soon after the date of our last issue, and rates rapidly advanced. Gold went up to 760714 premium in New York, and sterling exchange to 117, or to about 8 per cent. above State and United States stocks advanced 3 5 per cent., and there was a general and in tense anxiety to get rid of bank paper and the new treasury notes, or in other words, "to stand from under," the prevailing belief being that notes, would rapidly depreciate, and so it has, as the advance in gold indicates. An immense amount of argument is being used to show that the request made by Mr. Chase is not a wise one, and that it is not necessary to grant; but it seems to us to be a necessity which will lead to another necessity, namely, the suppression of the circulation of bank notes throughout the country, by taxing them. The first is necessary to enable I am happy to let you know that he has no the Government to prosecute the war to a successful termination, and the other, to save the people from immense losses by means eral circulation to the Treasury notes, as bankers will surely discriminate against them, or hoard them, in order to keep out their own notes or to resleem their own notes when it became necessary. sistibly, to a corresponding advance in the produce and merchandize already indicated. The war news of the week has not been of special importance, and with the exception of a defeat which a small detachment of our troops experienced, in following the rebel General Jack son, no engagements have taken place. This, however, took place ten days ago. The Mississippi is not yet opened, and at the last accounts the rebel forces were concentrating at Grenada, Mississippi. Generally speaking, the Indications

"Two soldiers, one belonging to the 2d Ohio Cavalry, and the other to the 10th Kansas, went up Mili creek to the house of Mr. John Davis, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of this county, and, in the presence of the mother, accomplished their hellish purpose on the person of his daughter. Mr. Davis was absent at another ciaim, about three miles distant, but was aroused by a neighbor with a report that outcries had been heard in the direction of his house.

In company with a number of his neighbors he went to his house, captured the criminals, brought them to town and turned them over to the military authorities. After due deliberation of the matter, General Doubleday resolved to send them to Fort Leavenworth for trial. A civil writ was, however, procured, and on it the prisoners were turned over to Deputy Sheriff Peter Zuck. This was on Thursday evening. They were taken immediately to Marmaton. During the night a large crowd surrounded the place where the prisoners were confined and took them by force out of the Sheriff's hands. Yesterday morning they were found hanging to a tree a short distance this side of Marmaton.
